

SUNDAY TO SPEAK TO UNIVERSITY AUDIENCE

Evangelist to Plead to Johns Hopkins Today and to Convicts Tomorrow.

BALTIMORE, April 14.—At noon today Billy Sunday is scheduled to address students of Johns Hopkins University in McCoy Hall. Tomorrow he will have an unusual audience when he addresses the convicts at the Maryland penitentiary at 11 o'clock.

Following the threat of Sunday to cancel his revival in Boston if he were not allowed to have his wooden tabernacle built there, the Massachusetts legislature reconsidered a previous action and voted to allow him to build it.

Today is the day Sunday designated for prayer and thanksgiving in Baltimore. He urged everyone to pray at 10 o'clock, again this afternoon, and just before the evening service.

Stirs Pandemonium.
Billy Sunday stirred to a pandemonium of applause 12,000 men who made up his congregation at the Tabernacle last evening when he declared, after stating again that the liquor interests, by means of the Personal Liberty League, had put $25,000 into Baltimore to work against the success of his campaign.

That he was going to cancel his here if possible next November "and scrap with that bunch in the election campaign."

"I've got 'em on the run," he said,
"and say, when do you have your next election?"

"November," somebody shouted promptly.

"Well, if I have time and strength I'm coming back here in November and scrap that bunch. I'd do anything for Baltimore. Don't know whether I can come back or not, but I'll try."

Un rose a howl of approval from the audience, and hundreds of voices joined in the chorus:

"Come back, Billy, come back!"

Carried off their feet by their own enthusiasm, men rose by thousands, hugged, whistled and clapped, waved handkerchiefs, and their wives and children's face broke into a broad smile.

Nailing the psychological moment, just when the audience was sinking back to the benches again, Homer Rodheaver grabbed his trombone, strode to the front of the platform and played "My Maryland." And, of course, the multitude went wild again.
Sunday stood smiling until the thunder began to roll.

Ginger and Patriotism.
"If I ever hear any other city talk about having ginger and patriotism, I'm going to tell it about Baltimore. You've got more ginger and patriotism here than any bunch of people I've seen in all the twenty years of my preaching."

"And, listen! If I can arrange to come back here and have the best of Baltimore, it won't cost you a cent. No, sir!"

The ceiling rang again with cheers, and a big bass voice shouted: "Come on anybody, Billy. That's all right about the cost."

"I think," Billy resumed, "that if the Lord were to open the door of Heaven and tell an angel he could come down to the prettiest place on earth, he'd come to Baltimore."

That concluding speech, and the enthusiasm his previous announcement had aroused, whipped the throng into a state of high spirits which continued throughout the services. It induced a sympathy that added weight to his sermon—which was the best of all—when he preached in Baltimore—and at its conclusion 251 men hit the trail. These, with the seventy-three who had been enrolled in the "Baltimore Improvement brought the total for the day to 324.

Replies to Infidels.
The sermon, which was a defense of Christian tenets, was directed particularly to answer the arguments of infidels. First Sunday took that pertinent to hypocrites. It was no more reasonable to disbelieve in religion because there were hypocrites in the church, he said, than there would be to hold valueless all money because there were counterfeiters in circulation.

But the great question asked by all opponents of the Bible, he said, was "Whom did Cain marry?" That question flooded most of the minds of the infidels, but these did not think deeply enough; the answer was apparent. In the first place, Cain was one hundred and fifty years old when he married; in the second place, he was a married man when he was born; in the third place, there were 3,500 buxom damsels on earth when Cain went to a courting. And that ought to have been enough to satisfy even the most popular of men."
